Liberty Baptist Church

More than ten thousand Messengers from thirty two thousand Southern Baptist Churches have been in session in Kansas City, Missouri, this week. This annual session which meets next year at Atlantic City, N. J., includes a joint meeting of all Baptist Bodies on the North American Continent, some twenty three million of them in a Jubilee Advance.

Some of the work at Kansas City this year includes the possibility of the admittance of our Canadian Baptist Brethren as members of the Southern Baptist Convention. Also a new statement of covenant or general policy is expected to be discussed and passed. The greatest item of business probably will be the Foreign Mission Board's report and the introduction of it's new Missionaries who will leave for points of service throughout one of the more than fifty countries where Southern Baptist have work. Our Pastor, Rev. O. D. Moore, has been in attendance and will return in time for the services this Sunday (May 12).

Sunday is Mother's Day, and Liberty will observe it by the recognition of all mothers present, with a special service for the new babies which have come into the homes during last Sunday. A brief dedication of the Babies will be a part of the morning worship hour. The Pastor will speak on the theme: "God Give Us Christian Homes" Sunday night the pastor will give a brief report of the South-Western Baptist Convention, under the convention's theme "To Every Men Free".

The Brotherhood will have a covered dish meeting Saturday night, May 11, at 6:30. Following the program they will rehearse for their performance in the Sunday Night service, a regular monthly feature of the Brotherhood.

The Young People's Department of the Training Union will also have a social at the Church Saturday night, May 11 at 5:30. It is called the "Crystal-Ball Social".

Safety Meeting Held By FFA

"The driving of a vehicle on our highways is a privilege not a right," said Trooper Wilberger of the Virginia State Police as he spoke to the Appomattox FFA Chapter at their regular monthly meeting held Thursday, April 25 in the auditorium of the Appomattox High School. Trooper Wilberger along with Sergeant Morris lead a discussion with the FFA members on the subject of "Farm Safety on the Highway". Laws governing the operation of farm vehicles and equipment were carefully explained to the group." Just following good rules of courtesy", said Trooper Wilberger, a former FFA member, will go a long ways in helping to reduce the hazard of moving farm equipment on our road system.

This program is a part of the total program that is being promoted by the Appomattox FFA Chapter to reduce farm accidents.

Ronald Millner, public speaking winner of the chapter this year, was presented a check for ten dollars by his adviser R. B. Carter, on behalf of the Virginia Association of FFA. Ronald received this prize for placing second in the Southside Area Public Speaking Contest held recently at William Campbell High School.

The group in a business session also decided to have a chapter softball team to participate in the Hub Rotation Softball League to be held at Appomattox High School on Saturday, May 18. Several practice sessions will be held later to select a team for the tournament.

Mrs. Barbara Cawthorne, above, with "Appomattox Hat," one of many unusual hats worn by the Junior Woman's Club members at their April meeting.

Spirit Of '63 Displayed In Hat Contest

Mrs. Barbara Cawthorne, of Appomattox, kept the Civil War Centennial in mind during a recent contest in the Junior Woman's Club to "design a hat". Hers is complete with General Lee — General Grant, cannon and a Confederate flag. Note that each general has an aide, and that the entire "Appomattox scene" is firmly entrenched on bright green grass atop a most engaging conversation piece hat. Prize winners in the Junior Club included Mrs. Alease Cobb's original chapeaux depicting all the club activities throughout the year plus others such as "Duke's Mixture" by Mrs. Sue Wood, with an assortment of vegetables and "Spring on the Moon" by Mrs. Lorene Montgomery who wore a decorated space helmet. Mrs. Katie Doss wore a cake pan with a cake in it.

There were three "Buttons and Bows" hats, and another with baby bootees, pacifier, and other infant items to mark the impending arrival of a new baby to a club member. Mrs. Ruth Smith wore a "kitchen hat" with scouring pad, dish towel, and other such decoration.

The hostess, Mrs. Lowe Lair, couldn't "wear her cake and eat it, too" — but her hat entry was a cake made into a hat shape and used as a centerpiece for the refreshment table.

Two Questions; Two Answers

Can Cancer Be Present Without Symptoms?

Yes. In its early and more curable stages — cancer may give no signs to the patient; a physician, however, may detect early cancer in a routine health checkup.

Could Poor Health Lead To Cancer?

There is no relationship between general health and the onset of cancer. But people should get periodic health checkups no matter how well they feel.

Diane Cox New Miss Oxford

Diane Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Cox, of Oxford, and neice of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Matthews, of Appomattox, is the new Miss Oxford, North Carolina.

She was chosen from a field of seven candidates to wear the crown of Miss Oxford, and in that capacity will participate in the Miss North Carolina Pageant in mid - summer. The winner there will go to Atlantic City in late summer to compete for the title of Miss America.

Diane wore for her appearance in the evening dress competition a satin grown which she herself made. Her talent presentation was a pantomine of "Honey Bun" from South Pacific for which she donned a loose fitting white sailor suit.

Her other talents include piano and dancing, having taken ballet for three years as a child. She will graduate this year from Oxford High and will be 18 on August 18.

It's Free — Mulch Garden With Sawdust

Ivey Holland, of J. E. Sears and Co. in Appomattox, says "Take it away" to residents who need sawdust. There is a good sized sawdust pile at the company, and they're glad to share it, says Holland.

And from VPI horticulturist Dr. Howard Massey comes the good news that mucking with sawdust will cut down on weeds in your garden. Contrary to popular belief, new sawdust is preferred.

First, prepare the soil normally, and seed the garden.

Then, over the planted rows, spread about one quarter inch of sawdust in a band from two to four inches wide. This makes for a better stand as it prevents a crust forming over the seed. It also holds moisture under the sawdust.

Some weeds may come up with the plants. Clean weeds out of the middle of the rows and then put a one inch layer of sawdust over everything — after plants are one and one-half to two inches tall.

After this final mulching there may be one flush of weeds coming through the mulch. Pull these by hand and this should be the end of weeding for the season.

This is the "lazy man's way of gardening, suggests Massey. It is also a very effective way of improving soil condition, increasing the moisture holding capacity of the soil, and increasing yields of some crops greatly.

For additional information on mulching with sawdust, ask your county agent for a copy of VPI Circular 650, "Use of Sawdust as a Mulch."

War Against RD By Southside TB Association

America's number one disabler and time - waster, and its fourth largest cause of death, is on the defensive at last.

For the first time in history, a broad - scale campaign is now being waged to alert the public to the meaning of RD —Respiratory Disease. RD, a group of ailments ranging from the common cold to such grave disorders as tuberculosis and emphysema, not only puts more Americans out of action for more days each year than any other class of disease, but accounts for nearly one out of every 10 deaths in the United States.

Seventh-Day Adventist Disaster Fund Offering May 11

The Appomattox Seventh -Day Adventist Church will contribute Saturday to the demonstrations of water and Famine Relief fund which last year made possible distribution of supplies totaling $2,268,745 in value.

A recent report on Health and Welfare work for last year shows that 29 countries were benefited from work done by Seventh-Day Adventist Welfare services with which local groups cooperates. Nearly 30,000,000 pounds of supplies, foods were shipped overseas and distributed with Korea and Ka'anga province in the Congo receiving 11,822,480 and 10,356,009 respectively.

Medical supplies valued at $191,223 were given out as needed in 12 countries. Much of this was in the form of vitamines, though preventive medicines also played an important part in disaster - ridden, areas.

Clothing and bedding gathered locally and from other Adventist churches and friends of the church across America made it possible for the two church's warehouses in New York and at Watsonville, California to ship abroad 493,515 pounds of such material.

Also included in last year's relief operation, according to the report, was the reconstruction of an entire village in Iran destroyed by an earthquake last September. The previous disaster and Famine Relief offering taken in 1961 totaled nearly $230,000 the report said.

And now this word from Howard K. Halladay, a veteran minister for nearly 41 years and also Home Missionary Leader for the denominatoin in his report for 1961 - 1962 states, "through the Adventist Welfare Service Units and Centers here in the United States $4,064,127 worth of aid was passed on to people here, many of them are our own neighbors.

Weeds is cultivated crops cost the average American farmer about $6 an acres. Losses due to weeds are reflected in reduced yields, lower quality, difficulty in harvesting and in storage problems.
